Preparing for Christmas

December seems to sneak up on me every year. Of course I know it's coming. It always does. And there are plenty of reminders that it's on the way, as the days get shorter and colder; as Halloween and All Saints Day go by and I shift into Thanksgiving planning. But a week or two before Thanksgiving, Christmas decorations start to appear in shops and front yards, and I suddenly feel like I'm already behind. "Uh oh!", I think, "I need to get a move on if I'm going to be ready for Christmas!"

It's all too easy for us to be co-opted by the worldly frenzy of the Christmas season, with lists to make, cookies to bake, and decisions about precautions to take for travel and gathering. There are trees to decorate, cards to send, presents to buy, meals to make, people to see, and so on. December can feel like one of the busiest and most stressful times of the year, with the days getting shorter as our "To Do" lists get longer.

But a few years ago, in an Advent spiritual retreat, a pair of questions popped into my head. What was this Christmas I always felt so rushed to get ready for? What does it mean for a faithful Christian to be "ready for Christmas"? And from those two questions, a whole new appreciation of the season of Advent began to unfold for me.

Advent calls us to orient ourselves to waiting, anticipating, and preparing, not for the secular Christmas holiday, but for God to break through the cacophony of the material world, in the birth of the infant Jesus, the Christ child. Advent reminds us to get a move on, yes, but not by speeding up; rather by slowing down.

It is an annual invitation, in the Christian life of faith, to slow down and to turn our attention to preparation of a different kind. To practice being mindful and heartful and present, in the here and now, looking forward to renewed life in Christ. To eagerly await that renewed life, not passively but intentionally, in hopeful anticipation of the incarnation of God in our midst.

Advent beckons us to open our hearts and minds and spirits to the magnitude of what it means that God so deeply desires relationship with us that God will come into the world to share our lives with us, to know our joy and sorrows, to be with us in our suffering and hope.

No matter how powerfully the world threatens to drown out the message of God's outrageous love for us, we can, if we try, hear the Advent call to lower the volume on the noises of the world. And, drawn into a quieter space, raise the volume on the voice and presence of God in our lives, alert, ready, and eager for the birth of Jesus Christ.

A YEAR OF PRAYERS TO END RACISM:
THE DIOCESAN COMMISSION TO END RACISM

DECEMBER-- for non-discrimination with regard to social services
"O giver of all good gifts, you have differently blessed and differently challenged your children. Some of us have handicaps for which we need the aid of social services, and some of us find our quest for such aid hindered by the complication of racial discrimination. Help us to overcome barriers of all kinds that prevent your people from functioning fully and freely, and let us never tolerate the denial of equal services to anyone because of their race. Amen.

Vestry Voices: Growing Faith in a Changing World

by Greg Miller

I believe that change (in this creation) is a constant. God never changes, but people do: our bodies, brains, ideas, and values all change. In fact, God built into us, and nature, the ability to change and adapt. Part of being created in God's image is that human beings can think, reason, and come to conclusions distinct from physical or material realities. And growth requires change, and how we handle the changes in our lives depends upon our faith. A growing faith allows us to be resilient to change.

With the advent of the COVID-19 pandemic, we've all experienced many changes. Many of us have had our work experiences change (my job involves a mix of work-from-home and on-site tasks). The work-from-home time allowed me to be at home to support my family and others. In April 2020, my wife, Elaine, was diagnosed with uterine cancer. The quick responses of the medical people resulted in complete removal of the cancerous tissue. Later in 2020, she had surgeries on each of her feet, as well as cataract surgery. Our faith in God, and others, has carried (and continues to carry) us through more changes and challenges.

Many see me as a positive and upbeat person. I tend to subscribe to things that a number of people taught me, such as "Don't take life so seriously, you'll never leave alive!" (my father's humor), or "When it comes to working with people, never criticize them, condemn them, or complain about them, just hold them up, in your heart, to God." (I don't remember who told me that one, it just stuck). As with many times in my life, I've felt myself reaching out, in faith, to God for guidance (when I am performing some fix-it task for the first time), inspiration (this article is one of those) or just plain patience (take a deep breath and let it go).

Elaine and I found a home at St. James' in 2005 and enjoy serving the community in any way we can as we continue our faith, by participation.

"Oh, Lord GOD! You have made the heavens and the earth by Your great power and outstretched arm. Nothing is too difficult for You! Jeremiah 32:17

Ask Anything! Continues as Focus on Faith

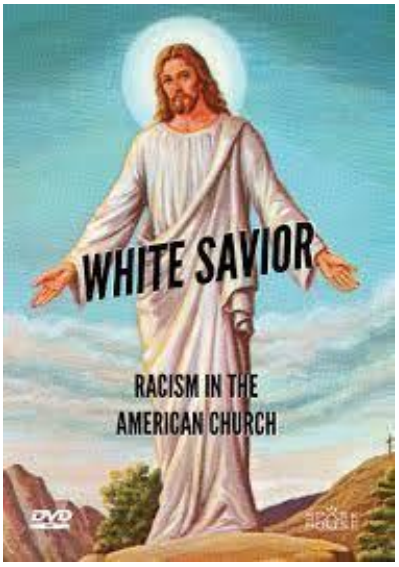
Due to ongoing interest, the "Ask Anything" Saturday, 10:00 AM gathering with Rev. Bill Hale will continue with a new name - Focus on Faith. The format and meeting date/time will be the same. Remember to invite your curious friends to join us on Saturday Mornings to inquire about and explore the Episcopal Church. Access the Zoom link HERE. (Meeting ID: 882 7942 7684; Passcode: 476864), or find it on the "Upcoming Events" calendar on our website.

Faith Formation Event—continues December 7, 14, 21



As Christians, we are called to be image-bearers of God who are able to see the Image of God in others. We are called to create communities of equality and equity, and we are called to be a prophetic voice against all forms of oppression and degradation.

If this is the case, how can we do so without taking a close examination of our past sins and the sins of the church? It is no secret that racism has and continues to permeate the American Church. And, we cannot heal until we acknowledge this reality.

To that end, the St. James' Social Justice Task Force invites you to an adult faith formation class on race and its existence in Christianity. During this seven-week course, we will utilize the film White Savior: Racism in the American Church to examine the history of race in the American Church and the ways the bible has been used to perpetuate systems of racism and to erase or diminish various ethnicities and genders.

When? Seven Tuesdays: November 2, 16, 23, 30, December 7, 14, 21.
Where? On Zoom.
Commitment? We encourage attendance at all seven sessions but understand that things come up. There is reading to be done between sessions.
How? Sign-up HERE. Zoom meeting link HERE.

This course will serve as our pre-Advent and Advent faith formation class, and is sponsored by the St. James' Social Justice Task Force. I look forward to seeing you in the zoom room.

John McCutcheon Is Coming to St. James'!

January 17 at 7:30 PM he will be singing for us….for the eighteenth time!

While he sat out most of 2020 and 2021, that is, could not play live performances, John was not idle. He wrote and recorded two albums of original songs, many of which he will perform for us. Just think, not only will he sing some of our favorites, but he will bring new music to us as well. This is going to be a really special performance!

With all the excitement of an exciting new concert, there will be a difference from earlier performances due to the pandemic. All who attend must show proof of vaccination, and we all will have to wear masks. No change from normal church services. Also, we are going to limit attendance. Those in the know will get their tickets early so they won't be turned down from wanting to buy tickets closer to John's performance.

For those of you who may not know John McCutcheon, he is a 6-time Grammy nominated folksinger, and a master of at least seven and as many as ten musical instruments, many of which he brings with him for the concert. He is one of the best hammer dulcimer players, period. Although he usually plays and sings his own songs, he has been known to play other's compositions. Anyone remember "Love Potion #9," a requested song. About what does he sing? The environment, kindergarten, baseball, songs from Pete Seeger, "Christmas in the Trenches," miners, soldiers, adoption, "Me and Jesus," "How Can I Keep from Singing?." And, as Tommy, John's Road Manager says, "I never know what he is going to sing, it's all a surprise to me." His concerts are always a surprise and a delight.

Yes, we will have an intermission (That's when you place your song requests in the famed basket), with treats for sale and the drawing for many gift items.

So – the takeaway – Get your tickets soon so you will have a ticket. Besides buying one's tickets at Church on Sundays, they can also be bought online. More information to follow. Bring proof of vaccination to the concert and wear your mask.

Recent Repair of the Little Church's Back Wall

You may not even know that the back wall (facing southwest) was recently repaired. The work lasted from October 11th to the 22nd. St. James' used Vasona Construction and they did a fine job.

Here's what happened: A few years ago the Vestry outlined a plan to revitalize the Little Church. You may remember that electrical work was accomplished, the walls of the Little Church got pulled in (buttress repair), the floor, carpet and pews were repaired. This was after the stained-glass windows were reset. Then the Little Church just needed painting.

After the Church was inspected, it was determined that the southwest wall of the Little Church needed repair due to weathering damage to the siding. The damage also involved the southwest-facing siding at that end of the nave. The project would include replacing the siding, insulating the southwest wall, and installing plywood for earthquake resistance. As the repairmen removed the siding, they discovered that a load-bearing beam at the bottom of the wall was damaged beyond repair from termites (all dead now due to tenting the Church a few years ago) and dry rot. That discovery delayed the repair a day or two, but Vasona finished the work the Friday before the Big Rain.

Now we can paint the Little Church. All Purpose Painting and Restoration has been selected by the Vestry to paint the Church. As per an old tradition the front doors will be changed from blue to red to show that St. James' is a welcoming church. The rest of the church will be painted gray with blue and white trim. The stained-glass windows will have the protective Plexiglas removed, and the window frames will be repaired and repainted before the covering is replaced.

To view the completed work, be sure to take a relaxing walk through the Memorial Garden as you view the results.

Completed, just awaiting paint

Park Task Force Update

The Park Task Force met via Zoom on Thursday Nov. 4. We were joined by Dave Nelsen, who has been a main component of the park's upkeep over the past decade, to help talk through concerns and provide additional insight. The following points were offered up and discussed by the group as a whole.

Labyrinth & trails: The team is in agreement that the existing labyrinth needs to be removed, and we also agree that a more organic style will replace it. We will be hiring a contractor to break up and remove the existing labyrinth slab, and have received estimates from two contractors (no decision has been made on that yet). Before removal happens, we recognize the need to have a plan and schedule in place for the new labyrinth. The removal of the trails in the park was also priced out, but we are keeping the current trails for the time being. The trails may be replaced with a more organic footpath, but that is a decision for a later phase in the park's renovation.

New trees: The juniper currently next to the labyrinth will likely stay, but is in need of pruning (no timeline set, yet). Regarding the installation of new trees, we have an opportunity to receive free trees, and are still considering how many, and where they might be placed. We are currently considering the areas in the Cabrillo Terrace / Thornton Ave. quadrant, and possibly along Cabrillo. We are studying the overall size of them when they mature. Because ideal planting time for new trees is from November to February, a decision by the team regarding these new trees will likely happen soon.

Electrical and plumbing: Because of the potential new trees, we recognize the need to first know where the current electrical lines are. We will need to contact PGE's digging hotline (8-1-1) to have them map out where the lines are before any new trees are planted. Current electrical lines feed the lighting of the Thornton Ave. cross, the banner stand, and the monument sign; we expect any future needs for lighting and/ or electricity to be handled via independent solar set-ups. With the new trees and future changes to the greenery in the space, we also discussed the need to have a (locked) water source in the park area. This will require having a contractor or landscape designer come out and plan out where new piping might go, off of the water main which runs along the fenceline between us and Fremont Christian School. With the labyrinth staying in the same place as the current one, we don't foresee it being in the way of any new water pipes.

The team discussed a number of other items, including how to deal with the ice plant, maintenance, the use of mulch around trees and its use as potential pathways, using the various zones or areas of the park to feature different themes (such as a butterfly and bird-friendly area, an area with more sensory plants/ shrubs, an area that honors the indigenous populations in our area, an area or pathway that displays or different faith practices, etc.). We understand the need to have a solid plan in place, including a map which reflects where new elements will be. The Park Task Force welcomes thoughts or comments, and we can be reached at park@saintj.com.
